EQUAL SUFFRAGE TALK

Chleago Suffragist Leaders Make Interest-ing Address Before Local League. Mrs. Harriet Taylor Treadwell, president of the Chicago Political League, addressed the Equal Suffrage League of Richmond of the Chicago Political League, addressed the Equal Suffrage League of Richmond yesterday on the progress of woman's suffrage in her home city. She was elated over the fact that only 37,000 out of 159,000 registered women voted in the last primary, and explained how an effort had been made to the up all who voted to a particular party for the next two years. The women can now, she said, go unpledged into the mayoralty contest this year, and 100,000 more are expected to register in time to vote.

Miss Florence Holdbrook, a Chicago school principal, known as the "Block School Lady," told of her efforts to have every school in her city built in the centre of a block, with the rest of the square left open as a breathing place for the children. Mrs. Cora V. Lewis, member of the Kansas Beard of Educational Administration, told of the administration problems in that State.

The final address was made by Miss Hally, one of Chicago's 7,000 school teachers. Miss Hally was leader in a fight to obtain more money for the teachers, which failed until woman suffrage was obtained. The fight was long-drawn-out, and it resulted in five big public utilities being compelled to pay taxes, which put $22,000,000 into the city treasury. THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O
